

Hello! I'm

SCOTT DORNAN

Scott is a former law enforcement officer with significant investigative experience garnered over 33 years of policing at various organizational levels.

Since retiring from law enforcement, Scott has leveraged that experience in taking on the challenges of workplace and sports investigations. Led by a desire to be fair, respectful, and compassionate, Scott has worked with private firms, regulatory bodies and indigenous communities in conducting independent and impartial investigations.

Scott has experience investigating complicated matters, including those framed by power imbalances, cultural differences, multiple parties as well as working with victims of personal and generational trauma.

In exercising a critical, reasonable, and common-sense approach to decision making, Scott focuses on creating an environment of fair-mindedness and professional integrity with all participants in an investigation. Scott fully appreciates that investigations can be stressful and need to be undertaken having regard for the humanity beyond the investigation.

As part of his transition to workplace and sports investigations, Scott has received training in trauma-informed investigations, workplace investigations, forensic interviewing and is a licensed private investigator.
